Memoir by youth worker Jayne Senior of the Rotherham abuse scandal published Jayne Senior, who for fourteen years tried to help girls from Rotherham who had been abused and threatened with violence by sex traffickers. As the manager of the project Risky Business, which was set up to work with vulnerable teens, she heard heartbreaking and shocking stories of abuse; she kept notes and details of the perpetrators, passing information on to the authorities in the belief that they would do something. Eventually, when she lost hope that the authorities would take action against the gangs she had identified as the abusers, she became a whistleblower for The Times investigative reporter Andrew Norfolk.
